

Policeman Held On Charge of Wild Gun Play

Bail Fixed at $5,000 When It Is Charged Dominic P. Cassella Fired Revolver at Storekeeper 4 Times

None of Shots Took Effect
Patrolman Asserts That Rystander Interfered With Him Arresting Four Men

Patrolman Dominic P. Cassella, attached to the La Salle Street police station, was held in $5,000 bail yesterday by Magistrate Charles E. Simms on complaint of Eugene J. McCarthy, a storekeeper of 2434 Second Avenue, that Cassella had fired four shots at him from his revolver. McCarthy was not wounded.

Cassella testified in court that McCarthy had interfered and showered abuse on him while he was arresting four men for disorderly conduct. The storekeeper admitted he lost his temper. The four men he arrested were dismissed when arraigned before Magistrate Simms. Cassella swore the men had been engaged in a noisy argument over prohibition, and he thought they were about to fight.

McCarthy said he was standing near the door of the police station when Cassella came out. He spoke of the arrests, but McCarthy declared that Cassella drew his revolver and fired four shots at him, none of which took effect. It developed in the course of the hearing that Cassella was off duty and supposedly on his way home when the shooting took place. When the shots were heard reserve officers ran out of the station house and Patrolman McGowan placed McCarthy under arrest. In court McCarthy swore to a charge of attempted felonious assault.

There was an evident disinclination to give information about the shooting both at the police station and among police officers in the courtroom. It was pointed out by court attaches, however, that a greater number of charges against police officers for assaults on civilians have been recently than at any time in the history of the department except for a short period during the administration of Mayor Gaynor. At that time a series of police clubbings resulted in many dismissals from the force.

At the present time eight patrolmen and detectives are under charges of clubbing, shooting and black-jacking civilians aside from Detective Charles Tighe, who is accused of clubbing men, women and children indiscriminately during a raid on an uptown cafe.

Swindlers Forge Stamp: Fleece Bank of $35,000

Quick Check Switching During Rush Hour Causes Loss to Toronto Institution

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Quick check switching and a fake stamp enabled two men to fleece the Bank of Commerce here of $35,000 last Saturday, it was learned today. They presented checks payable to "self or bearer" during the rush hour and were told to get them marked for acceptance by the ledger keeper.

In a few minutes both returned to the paying teller's window with the checks marked "accepted," and it was not until they had gone that it was discovered the signatures were not those of a depositor and that the "accepted" came from a forged stamp.

Legion Men End Trip on Belgian Battlefields

OSTEND, Belgium, Aug. 29 (By The Associated Press).—The Continental tour of the members of the American Legion ended here this morning, after they had visited Ypres, Dickebeke, Passchendaele and other places on the former Belgian war front today. During their tour over the battlefields they were conducted by Lieutenant General Ory, who was especially detailed by the Belgian Minister of War.

Major John G. Emery, national commander, and about thirty other members of the Legion will depart for England tomorrow on an official visit. The party will sail from Havre for the United States on the steamship Republicina on September 1.

Bank Robbers Get $14,500

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 29.—While residents of the town of Plains, Mont., fought a lumber yard fire, bandits to have been of incendiary origin, two men entered the First National bank there today and escaped with $14,500 in currency and Liberty bonds, according to a telephone message received here.

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—Two bandits overpowered a patrolman at Meridian, a lake shore resort, near Detroit, today, forced open the safe and obtained approximately $9,000. Macomb County and Detroit authorities had found no clue to the robbers to-night.

Atlantic City

Wednesday, August 31
SUNDAYS, SEPT. 4 and 18.

SPECIAL TRAIN LEAVES
Eastern Standard Time

Pennsylvania System

Atlantic City

Pennsylvania System

Kensico
The Permanent
Burial Park

Hoey Is Held As Slayer of Patrolman

Lord Auckland Sued For Unnamed Amount

Summons Only Filed, but Explanation Is Made Action Must Be for "Trifling Sum"

A summons in a suit against Lord Auckland and Lady Susan Auckland was filed yesterday. No complaint was filed, so what sum is involved in the action did not show or the ground of the action.

Lady Auckland at her apartment, 140 West Fifty-seventh Street, said: "It must be for some trifling amount that Lord Auckland invoked."

Lady Auckland was Miss Susan L. Hartbridge, of Jacksonville, Fla. Lord Auckland's father lost his fortune in London, and the couple have been engaged here and abroad in commercial enterprises.

About a year ago the Rev. Father O'Keefe, of St. Matthew's Church, Hastings-on-Hudson, sued Lord Auckland for $4,000, which the clergyman said he lent him, but which Lord Auckland said was a gift. This action was discontinued.

Held in Gangster's Murder

Man Out on Bail on Burglary Charge Arrested in Court

Joseph Kopp, twenty-five years old, of 539 West Fifty-fifth Street, was arrested yesterday in Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen's part of General Sessions Court, on a charge of burglary, when he reported under $10,000 bail to answer an old charge of burglary. He was taken to Police Headquarters, where he is held in connection with the killing, Sunday night, of Frank Knox, alias "Goo Goo," and a half a dozen other aliases.

Knox, the police say, was a familiar figure in the Tenderloin and was a Hell's Kitchen gangster. His body was found, hatless and coatless, in Fifty-second Street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. A bullet had penetrated his heart. Four witnesses are held by the police. The motive for the shooting is said, by the police, to have been a rivalry in the illicit sale of liquors and drugs.

Knox is said to have been affiliated with a gang, four members of which have been killed in the last two years.

Villa Not Shot; Still on Ranch

EL PASO, Aug. 29.—Francisco Villa has not been forced to flee from his rebellious followers and has not been shot, as rumored in Juarez, but is still on his ranch at Canutillo, Durango, according to Colonel Francisco J. Reganada, sub-chief of President Obregon's staff.

Lord Auckland Sued For Unnamed Amount

Summons Only Filed, but Explanation Is Made Action Must Be for "Trifling Sum"

A summons in a suit against Lord Auckland and Lady Susan Auckland was filed yesterday. No complaint was filed, so what sum is involved in the action did not show or the ground of the action.

Lady Auckland at her apartment, 140 West Fifty-seventh Street, said: "It must be for some trifling amount that Lord Auckland invoked."

Lady Auckland was Miss Susan L. Hartbridge, of Jacksonville, Fla. Lord Auckland's father lost his fortune in London, and the couple have been engaged here and abroad in commercial enterprises.

About a year ago the Rev. Father O'Keefe, of St. Matthew's Church, Hastings-on-Hudson, sued Lord Auckland for $4,000, which the clergyman said he lent him, but which Lord Auckland said was a gift. This action was discontinued.

Held in Gangster's Murder

Man Out on Bail on Burglary Charge Arrested in Court

Joseph Kopp, twenty-five years old, of 539 West Fifty-fifth Street, was arrested yesterday in Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen's part of General Sessions Court, on a charge of burglary, when he reported under $10,000 bail to answer an old charge of burglary. He was taken to Police Headquarters, where he is held in connection with the killing, Sunday night, of Frank Knox, alias "Goo Goo," and a half a dozen other aliases.

Knox, the police say, was a familiar figure in the Tenderloin and was a Hell's Kitchen gangster. His body was found, hatless and coatless, in Fifty-second Street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. A bullet had penetrated his heart. Four witnesses are held by the police. The motive for the shooting is said, by the police, to have been a rivalry in the illicit sale of liquors and drugs.

Knox is said to have been affiliated with a gang, four members of which have been killed in the last two years.

Villa Not Shot; Still on Ranch

Hoey Positively Identified

Fled From Sister's Home

"He rented a room that night (Saturday), on Nineteenth Street, Sunday morning he went to the home of his sister (Mrs. Margaret White, Staten Island). Mrs. White said the police had been there and Hoey fled again. He came back to Manhattan and last night went to Ossining and stayed at a hotel, coming to me at noon today. He said he wanted to give himself up to the District Attorney's office and get a square deal."

Practically every detective in the third district yesterday was working on the case. They declare that Hoey's story is rehearsed. Detective Captain Patrick Randall asserts five men were in the lot at the time of the shooting. They charge Hoey shot Neville to death, and then leaped a fence. They have a witness, they say, who encountered Hoey just as he jumped the fence. "This man tried to bait Hoey," said Captain Randall, "and Hoey stuck a gun against the man's stomach and said: 'You keep quiet or you'll get it too.' He then ran away. Another man came over the fence and our witness grabbed him and pushed his chin up and said: 'I want to get a good look at you.'"

Hoey said that Neville said, "Stand aside a minute," and he stood aside. He saw Neville follow the four men to the shack. He heard two shots fired from inside the shack and saw Neville fall. He said he did not know who fired the shots, but could identify the men. Two men then ran by him, he said, and jumped the fence. He was afraid of the police and ran away from the lot.

Fled From Sister's Home

"He rented a room that night (Saturday), on Nineteenth Street, Sunday morning he went to the home of his sister (Mrs. Margaret White, Staten Island). Mrs. White said the police had been there and Hoey fled again. He came back to Manhattan and last night went to Ossining and stayed at a hotel, coming to me at noon today. He said he wanted to give himself up to the District Attorney's office and get a square deal."

Practically every detective in the third district yesterday was working on the case. They declare that Hoey's story is rehearsed. Detective Captain Patrick Randall asserts five men were in the lot at the time of the shooting. They charge Hoey shot Neville to death, and then leaped a fence. They have a witness, they say, who encountered Hoey just as he jumped the fence. "This man tried to bait Hoey," said Captain Randall, "and Hoey stuck a gun against the man's stomach and said: 'You keep quiet or you'll get it too.' He then ran away. Another man came over the fence and our witness grabbed him and pushed his chin up and said: 'I want to get a good look at you.'"

Hoey said that Neville said, "Stand aside a minute," and he stood aside. He saw Neville follow the four men to the shack. He heard two shots fired from inside the shack and saw Neville fall. He said he did not know who fired the shots, but could identify the men. Two men then ran by him, he said, and jumped the fence. He was afraid of the police and ran away from the lot.

Fled From Sister's Home

"He rented a room that night (Saturday), on Nineteenth Street, Sunday morning he went to the home of his sister (Mrs. Margaret White, Staten Island). Mrs. White said the police had been there and Hoey fled again. He came back to Manhattan and last night went to Ossining and stayed at a hotel, coming to me at noon today. He said he wanted to give himself up to the District Attorney's office and get a square deal."

Practically every detective in the third district yesterday was working on the case. They declare that Hoey's story is rehearsed. Detective Captain Patrick Randall asserts five men were in the lot at the time of the shooting. They charge Hoey shot Neville to death, and then leaped a fence. They have a witness, they say, who encountered Hoey just as he jumped the fence. "This man tried to bait Hoey," said Captain Randall, "and Hoey stuck a gun against the man's stomach and said: 'You keep quiet or you'll get it too.' He then ran away. Another man came over the fence and our witness grabbed him and pushed his chin up and said: 'I want to get a good look at you.'"

Hoey said that Neville said, "Stand aside a minute," and he stood aside. He saw Neville follow the four men to the shack. He heard two shots fired from inside the shack and saw Neville fall. He said he did not know who fired the shots, but could identify the men. Two men then ran by him, he said, and jumped the fence. He was afraid of the police and ran away from the lot.

Fled From Sister's Home

"He rented a room that night (Saturday), on Nineteenth Street, Sunday morning he went to the home of his sister (Mrs. Margaret White, Staten Island). Mrs. White said the police had been there and Hoey fled again. He came back to Manhattan and last night went to Ossining and stayed at a hotel, coming to me at noon today. He said he wanted to give himself up to the District Attorney's office and get a square deal."

Practically every detective in the third district yesterday was working on the case. They declare that Hoey's story is rehearsed. Detective Captain Patrick Randall asserts five men were in the lot at the time of the shooting. They charge Hoey shot Neville to death, and then leaped a fence. They have a witness, they say, who encountered Hoey just as he jumped the fence. "This man tried to bait Hoey," said Captain Randall, "and Hoey stuck a gun against the man's stomach and said: 'You keep quiet or you'll get it too.' He then ran away. Another man came over the fence and our witness grabbed him and pushed his chin up and said: 'I want to get a good look at you.'"

Hoey said that Neville said, "Stand aside a minute," and he stood aside. He saw Neville follow the four men to the shack. He heard two shots fired from inside the shack and saw Neville fall. He said he did not know who fired the shots, but could identify the men. Two men then ran by him, he said, and jumped the fence. He was afraid of the police and ran away from the lot.

Fled From Sister's Home

"He rented a room that night (Saturday), on Nineteenth Street, Sunday morning he went to the home of his sister (Mrs. Margaret White, Staten Island). Mrs. White said the police had been there and Hoey fled again. He came back to Manhattan and last night went to Ossining and stayed at a hotel, coming to me at noon today. He said he wanted to give himself up to the District Attorney's office and get a square deal."

Practically every detective in the third district yesterday was working on the case. They declare that Hoey's story is rehearsed. Detective Captain Patrick Randall asserts five men were in the lot at the time of the shooting. They charge Hoey shot Neville to death, and then leaped a fence. They have a witness, they say, who encountered Hoey just as he jumped the fence. "This man tried to bait Hoey," said Captain Randall, "and Hoey stuck a gun against the man's stomach and said: 'You keep quiet or you'll get it too.' He then ran away. Another man came over the fence and our witness grabbed him and pushed his chin up and said: 'I want to get a good look at you.'"

Hoey said that Neville said, "Stand aside a minute," and he stood aside. He saw Neville follow the four men to the shack. He heard two shots fired from inside the shack and saw Neville fall. He said he did not know who fired the shots, but could identify the men. Two men then ran by him, he said, and jumped the fence. He was afraid of the police and ran away from the lot.

Fled From Sister's Home

"He rented a room that night (Saturday), on Nineteenth Street, Sunday morning he went to the home of his sister (Mrs. Margaret White, Staten Island). Mrs. White said the police had been there and Hoey fled again. He came back to Manhattan and last night went to Ossining and stayed at a hotel, coming to me at noon today. He said he wanted to give himself up to the District Attorney's office and get a square deal."

Flint's Fine Furniture

Annual Summer Sale

EXTENDED TO INCLUDE THIS WEEK

Giving to those who have been absent during the vacation season an opportunity to participate in the unusual advantages of this notable event.

The values are as typical of Flint Quality Standards as those presented in the beginning.

Flint & Horner Co.
20-26 West 36th St.
"Conveniently near Fifth Ave."

The Newest Weaves in Dress Goods

At prices which inspire immediate buying.

Imported Wool Plaids—54 inches wide, in new Fall colors. Every school and college girl should number several skirts made of this material among her wardrobe.

Regularly 5.50 Yard
3.25

Checked and Plaid Coating—A durable, smart all wool homespun weave that is ideal for the better type utility coats and skirts—54 inches.

Regularly 4.00
1.95

56-inch Wool Velour—In a very special sale at 2.25 Yard

New Fall quality greatly under-priced for the introductory sale. One of the smartest fabrics shown for suits, coats, etc. In Beaver, Brown, Taupe, Pekin, Navy and Black.

Regular Value 3.50

Lingerie Blouses

Well worth 2.25 and more, Now 1.65

Countless models in a charming assortment of the season's best styles. It will be difficult to make a selection, they are all so different and desirable.

Illustrated—a sheer Lingerie Blouse trimmed with real Filet Lace. 1.65

Other Cotton Blouses now slated for clearance at 2.45 and 3.35

Philippine Lingerie—2.95

There are several different qualities seen in various shops at this price, but this is a remarkable sale in that it features truly fine materials and exquisitely dainty hand-embroidered designs and scallops—simple or more elaborate styles.

Garments such as these usually retail for 3.95 to 4.50, and it is only due to an exceptional purchase that we are able to offer them at 2.95.

Nothing can quite take the place of these dainty undergarments for school and college wear, for they are made to withstand all the vicissitudes of frequent laundering.

Envelope Chemise and Gowns, 2.95 Each

In keeping with the smart Costume

Pure Thread Silk Hosiery

Women of the most discriminating taste will find no fault with this fine quality, lustrous, pure thread silk hosiery—fashioned and carefully woven so that the threads are even. In Black, Cordovan and African Brown.

Unusual value at .95 Pair

Glove Silk Top Union Suits

With narrow band silk shoulder straps—bodies of fine ribbed gauge knit. In pink—all sizes. Very special 1.15

Arnold, Constable & Co.

CAP AND FRINGE SHAPE HAIR NETS 1.00 DOZEN
FIFTH AVENUE AT 40TH STREET

Final Clearaway of Dainty House and Porch Dresses

Now 3.95 and 4.95

Striking reductions are featured in the clearance of Women's and Misses' Porch Dresses. The models are fashioned of dainty summer materials in attractive colorings and are a revelation in value giving. There are numerous smart and practical styles, some effectively trimmed, others with contrasting collars and cuffs.

Extraordinary Value 100 Silk Petticoats

Including Jersey Silks, Satins and Taffetas in the favored Fall shades as well as Navy, Brown and Black. In 34 and 36 inch lengths.

Regularly 5.00
Special 3.95

Manufacturers' Surplus Stocks Offered in a Great Sale of Silks

No Exchanges 15,000 Yards No Returns

To be sold at 1/3 to 1/2 price previous to our Fall Opening

Black Silks

40-inch Black Crepe de Chine. An exquisitely fine quality that is durable and firm. Regularly 2.25. 1.48

Black Satin Charmeuse—36 inches wide—a weave greatly in demand for Fall frocks. Regularly 4.00. 2.48

Black Satin—pure dye and of a lovely sheen. Regularly 3.50. 1.95

Colored Silks

Heavy Crepe de Chine in a complete range of the newest and most wanted Autumn colorings—40 inches wide. Regularly 3.50 and 4.00. 2.35

Colored Satin Crepe—one of the most unusual values ever featured by this shop—40 inches wide. Regularly 4.50 and 5.50. 2.75

Washable Fleck Crepe for dainty lingerie. 40 inches wide. Regularly 2.50. 1.78

Lyons Taffeta

A celebrated make, imported direct from Lyons—lustrous quality in a pure black dye. In Stock, 4.75 2.45

Satin Canton

The weave of the hour—predicted by Paris to rule supreme in the realm of Silks for the coming season. 40 inches wide. Black and Navy. Regularly 6.00. 3.95

40 Inch Canton Crepe, 2.98 Yard

We bought out the manufacturer's entire assortment at one-half the original cost. Heavy quality in Black and Navy. Navy and White, Black and White figured Chiffon Taffeta. Regularly 4.00. Now 2.35

Plain White Crepe de Chines

40 inches wide Without exception the best silk of its kind offered since pre-war days and at a price that cannot be duplicated, quality considered. Regularly 4.00 to 4.50 2.35

To Close Out Fashionable Dresses and Suits

BEST QUALITY MATERIALS—WANTED WEAVES—VARIOUS SMART STYLES No Exchanges No Returns

Formerly 60.00 to 135.00 Clearance Price 39.50

Sweater Sale

at 4.95

Every woman must have a Sweater, and the clearance affords a rare opportunity to purchase several at the same price usually asked for one. Every garment worth at least 3.00 more than the quoted sale price.

Slim, well tailored models that can be slipped on over a sports costume or the flimsiest frock, for they closely resemble in weave and cut the swagger utility coats of the hour. In Black, Navy, Tangerine, Jade, Brown and Henna.

Reduced! Seamless Scotch Chenille Rugs

Size Formerly New Price
52x63 17.00 14.25
3x7 21.50 18.00
4x4 35.00 29.50
6x9 65.00 55.00
7x9 77.50 65.00
9x10 105.00 89.00
9x12 120.00 100.00

10% Extra Discount from new prices quoted above

Women's Imported Sheer Irish Linen Handkerchiefs

215 Dozen of corded edge pure Irish Linen Handkerchiefs. At this price only while this special purchase lasts. Six for 1.50

Sale! Turkish Towels

In the Clearance Sale at .32 .47 .75 Each

Extra heavy Turkish Towels, all fully bleached and neatly hemmed. Serviceable and absorbent. An unusual opportunity to procure these qualities at about half of last year's prices.

Mail and phone orders promptly filled.

Sale Continued Men's Shirts

These prices will make a purchase exceedingly profitable at this time.

Fine quality Printed Corde. Value 2.00. Now 1.45

White Corded Madras. Value 2.50. Now 1.45

Odd Lots—Broken sizes. Value 2.00. Now 1.15

Automobile Lap Robes

Wool robes in dark conservative combinations—truly exceptional values at 8.95